THE Nº. 81.

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtic.

TUESDAY, November 18, 1746.

Camp at VILER, Auguſt 6, N. S.

THE French having form'd a deſign to carry a poſt which we have at St. Andre, and for that purpoſe made a detachment the day before yeſterday from their army, conſiſting of moſt of their Huſſars and Graſſins, ſupported by a body of foot and dragoons, with cannon, the whole amounting to 7000 men; the generals Baronai and Trips, who had notice thereof, came up with them upon a little plain near Pereiſs, and attacked them.

The French Huſſars and Irregulars in front were immediately diſperſed or cut to pieces, and their colonel Senze, the lieut. colonel, the major, and ſeveral inferior officers taken priſoners. The dragoons kept their ground for ſome time, but were at laſt obliged to give way. The infantry, which was drawn up behind the dragoons, in a ſquare, with cannon, maintained their poſt 'til our men received a reinforcement of ſome Pandours, and three free companies, which entirely broke and routed them. Upon this occaſion we have taken 15 or 16 French officers, and made 400 private men priſoners. Moſt of the officers are wounded. Yeſterday ſeveral detachments from our army took poſſeſſion of the wood of Petit Lez, and routed a body of 100 French horſe between that wood and Gemblours. The enemy have advanced three brigades upon our left flank near Boſſiers, and are erecting batteries there. Our artillery, horſes, and baggage, are arrived.

Auguſt 8. Yeſterday the enemy removed 2000 paces backwards, paſſed the Sambre with a conſiderable corps, and appeared at St. Girard.

Hague, Aug. 12. We hear from Bruſſels, that on Monday laſt 135 carriages full of wounded men were conducted thither from the French army.

Camp of the Allies at Viler, Aug. 13. Skirmiſhes ſtill continue, particularly in the wood on our right; but the enemy have been ſo roughly treated, that they do not return upon us ſo often as they did. Our Huſſars are continually bringing to the head quarters priſoners and booty. The left of our army winds to the village of Spy, and Frangepani's Huſſars, with the battalions from Namur, encamp on the flank of this wing, which is covered by two ſmall redoubts, and a large battery erected on an eminence, which commands the right wing of the enemy. Our right is covered by general Trips, who is poſted at Lierreux, general Baronjay at Aſche, and the count de Daun at St. Germain. The corps de reſerve encamp between the village of St. Dennis and the center of the army.

Paris, Auguſt 8. The brother of the young pretender is returning hither from the caſtle of Navarre. The court appears extremely ſatisfied with the News that it has received from Spain, particularly ſince the arrival of a courier from the biſhop of Rennes, who brings advice, that king Ferdinand had aſſured him in the moſt poſitive manner, that he would agree to no terms of peace, but in concert with his majeſty.

Madrid, July 25. The king, who is very aſſiduous, employs two hours every morning and evening with his miniſters, and as his majeſty is deſirous of ſeeing every thing with his own eyes, he intends to appoint one day in each week to give public audience, and to fix a box in ſome part of the palace, which will have communication with the king's apartment, into which any one that pleaſes may have free liberty to put their complaints or repreſentations againſt any of the miniſters of ſtate. The king only is to ſee thoſe writings, to which his majeſty will do ſuitable and ſpeedy juſtice, ſo ſoon as he ſhall be informed of the truth of thoſe complaints. We already begin to feel the happy effects which the public promiſes itſelf from the preſent reign; the king has taken off the tax upon ſpirituous liquors, and given liberty to all perſons to ſell them, and act therein as they ſhall think fit. It is likewiſe ſaid, that an ordonnance will be publiſhed, to take off one half of the duties upon goods and merchandize imported into this city. His majeſty has directed the treaſurer-general to pay off and clear all arrears of ſalary due to his ſervants and thoſe of the queen. A million of piaſters will be forthwith ſent into Italy, to pay the troops there; and 'tis thought that orders will be diſpatched at the ſame time for them to prepare to return home. According to the laſt advices received from Carthagena, the armament carrying on there is ſuſpended 'til further orders, but not diſcharged. There are now actually in that port 12 ſail of men of war from 60 to 80 guns, and 5 frigates from 24 to 54 guns. Two of the men of war, of 80 guns each, are unfit for ſervice. The king has eſtabliſhed two councils, one of which is to have the management of foreign affairs, the other that of the domeſtic ones. His majeſty has likewiſe reſolved to aboliſh the ſuperfluous expences of his family, and has begun with the tables of his court, which he has reduced in number from five to two.

LONDON.

Auguſt 5. On Saturday the Heads of Francis Townley and George Fletcher, the former Colonel (as he was called) of the Manchester Regiment, and the latter a Captain in the ſame, were affixed on two Poles on Temple-bar by the common Hangman, purſuant to an Order from his Grace the Duke of Newcaſtle.

The Heads of Chadwick, Barwick, Deacon, and Syddall, were yeſterday carried down to Manchester and Carliſle, to be affixed on Places moſt proper for the Purpoſe.

Extract of a Letter from Cheſter, Auguſt 2.

"On Wedneſday laſt were brought from Stafford Goal, to our Caſtle, ſeven robuſt ſturdy Rebels in a Cart, guarded by 12 of Wade's Horſe. Their Behaviour has been ſo rude and undaunted, that it has been thought proper to double iron them. One of them named Hamilton, a Scotch Horſe Pedlar, is well known in almoſt every great Town and Family in the Northern Counties of England. On Friday they, with between 50 and 60 other Rebel Priſoners, were carried from hence in Waggons, guarded by a ſtrong Party of Wade's Horſe, on their Way to York, there to take their Tryal."

Extract of a Letter from Briſtol, Auguſt 2.

"There are four Soldiers arrived here from Wales, who have been only ſix Days from Kinſale; and ſay, that juſt before they came from thence there were four Prizes brought in there, and a retaken Ship by Privateers."

Another Letter ſays, "That a French Privateer of 14 ſix Pounders, 14 Swivels, and 138 Men; and a Ship bound from Cadiz to Buenos Ayres, of 400 Tons, 20 ſix Pounders, 6 four Pounders, and 165 Men; are carried into Kinſale."

Auguſt 7. There being great Room to ſuſpect that a certain General in the Confederate Army in the Netherlands may have Orders not to fight, it is ſaid, that the principal Article of a certain Nobleman's Commiſſion, who is going abroad, will effectually quicken the Reſolutions of their H——h M——ſſes; that Article tending to nothing leſs (in caſe they will not turn over a new Leaf), than abſolutely preventing the D——h from enjoying any longer the Benefit of being Carriers to the Enemies of Britain during the War, by making all Products and Manufactures of ſuch Enemies fall under the Denomination of contraband Goods, when taken in D——ch Bottoms.

Auguſt 12. We hear that the Committee of a certain Northern County, which has the Diſpoſal of the Money raiſed on the late Aſſociation, is come to a Reſolution to apply the Surplus to ſupport one of their preſent worthy Members at the next general Election.

On Saturday Sir James Stewart was brought to the New Goal in Southwark by one of his Majeſty's Meſſengers.

The ſame Day Mr. Vincent, one of his Majeſty's Meſſengers, went down to Woolwich, to bring up Sir James Kinloch, and Sir John Wedderburn, Baronets, and ſome other Rebel Priſoners, from on board a Ship, in order to carry them to the New Goal in Southwark, they being to be tried very ſoon for High Treaſon.

Auguſt 23. It is ſaid that Admiral Anſon, in his Majeſty's Ship the Yarmouth, with the Captain, Kent, Portland, Falkland, and Amazon Men of War, and Ætna Fireſhip, that ſailed from Portſmouth on Wedneſday laſt, are gone to make ſome Diverſion on the French Coaſt.

The Store Ships from England, which Commodore Barnet ſo impatiently expected in India, are ſafely arrived; and the Commodore thereupon fitting out with all Expedition, to intercept the three French China Men from Canton, in the Streights of Malacca.

The ſaid Commodore has taken or deſtroyed moſt of the Country trading Ships, and ruined a French Settlement on the Coaſt of Malabar.

Thurſday his Excellency Count Roſenburg arrived in Town from Holland, as Ambaſſador from the Emperor, and the young Prince Lobkowitz along with his Excellency.

It is reported, that his Royal Highneſs the Duke is to command a ſeparate Army of Auſtrians, Bavarians, Dutch and Engliſh, now drawing together on the Side of Maeſtricht, both by Land and Sea; and 'tis preſumed will be imbodied to the Amount of 25000 Men, about the Middle of September.

We are informed, that againſt the next Seſſion of Parliament all penal Laws in regard to Papiſts, which are now but a Dead Letter, will be reduced into one regular Body, with juſt and reaſonable coercive Clauſes, for the Security of Church and State as it is at preſent happily eſtabliſhed; and that after repealing the old, and giving the new Body of Laws Parliamentary Sanction, they will be effectually carried into Execution in Town and Country, in order to prevent the many miſchievous Conſequences that have viſibly attended the late Toleration of Popery for many Years paſt; and alſo to hinder its diffuſing itſelf amongſt the common Sort of People for Time to come.

Beſides the two Battalions of Guards, there are ſeven more Regiments ordered to imbark directly; which are ſaid not to be deſtin'd for Flanders, but on ſome other very extraordinary Expedition, which was determined a few Days ago.

Newcaſtle, Auguſt 24. We hear from Whitby, by a Maſter of a Ship, that laſt Week, as a Veſſel was loading there with Fiſh for Holland, the Captain was applied to, and offer'd an extraordinary Price, by one H——n, a Roman Catholick, to take Paſſenger a young Gentleman then in his Houſe; the Merchant, who was then loading the Ship, obſerving the Captain and H——n frequently together, enquired of the Captain what they were about, who told him the plain Truth; which the Merchant, ſuſpecting he might be a Rebel concealed there as he did not appear to bargain for himſelf, informed the Cuſtom-Houſe Officers of the Affair, and deſired them to have an Eye on the young Gentleman as he was coming on board; but the Officers, not willing to wait for that, immediately got a Warrant for ſearching H——n's Houſe, where they found the young Man dreſs'd like a Jockey with a Leather Cap on. As ſoon as they came into the Room, he audaciouſly drew a Piſtol knife, and defended himſelf with it 'till they knock'd him down and ſecured him. He ſaid, he wiſh'd he had a Brace of Piſtols with which he ſwore he would have ended ſome of their Days. In the Heat of his Paſſion he boaſted of having been at the Battles of Falkirk and Culloden with the Rebels in Scotland. There was found ſewed in his Shirt Neck 10 Guineas, ſeven more in the Waiſtband of his Breeches, and he had ſeveral large Portugal Pieces in his Pockets. He ſaid his Name was Murray, and that he was Nephew to Secretary Murray. Next Day he was more ſullen, and would not own any Part of the above. He pretended to be in the French Service. He is committed to York Caſtle by Juſtice Linſkill.

The following Account of the Death of Col. Grozette, who was killed at the Battle of Culloden, is juſt come to Hand, but particularly communicated by a Gentleman nearly related to the Colonel, in the following Manner, viz.

"The ſaid Colonel Grozette, who commanded a Company at the Battle of Culloden, when in the Heat of the Battle took an Officer in the Pretender's Service Priſoner, who heartily begged his Life; and the ſaid Gentleman having too much Humanity to take it, ordered him to retire behind him, attended by a few Men, where he might be moſt ſafe: It happened, that before the Action was over, Colonel Grozette was diſmounted by his Horſe being ſhot under him, and having in the Confuſion dropped one of his Piſtols, the Officer to whom he had gave his Life, ſtooped to take it up, but inſtead of giving it to the ſaid Colonel, he ſhot him through the Heart with it; upon which the Party of Men, who were ordered to attend him, fell upon and cut him intirely to Pieces."

Dublin, Aug. 26. On Sunday laſt in a Fray between the Crews of ſome Portugueze Ships lying in the Harbour and ſome Men belonging to the Dubkan Privateer, one Stammers a Carpenter, was ſtabb'd in the Left Breaſt thro' his Heart, which he inſtantly died, and ſeveral others were wounded. Four of the Portugueze were immediately apprehended by Mr. Sheriff Murray and a Detachment of the Main Guard, and committed to Newgate, where one of them is ſo ill of his Wounds, that his Life is deſpair'd of. This was no ſudden Rencounter, but a Thing premeditated for near three Weeks paſt by the Potugueze, one of whom had paid his Addreſſes to a young Woman on Lazer's Hill, who receiv'd them kindly, and gave him Hopes of Succeſs; 'till a Dublin Lad, with his Pockets full of Spaniſh Dollars, won her Affection from him and married her. The Portugueze vowed Revenge, and their Part was eſpouſed by the Crews of ſeveral Ships of the ſame Nation, who, in a Body, went to her Houſe to wreck their Reſentment on her, but ſhe was bravely defended by her new Spouſe alone, 'till the Mob gathering, and every one that paſſed declar-declaring in his Favour, the Foreigners were repuls'd; and it was in their Retreat they fell on the Deceas'd and kill'd him.

The same Day a strolling artful Fellow painted himself so as to seem entirely emaciated and worn away by the Black Jaundice, and being laid down in Francis Street, got a great deal of Money from such as were moved by the melancholy Appearance he made, till some one suspecting the Imposture, raised the Mob about him, who washing him at a Pump, and finding him a well looking hale Fellow, brought him to Newgate, where he now remains.

York, August 26. On Wednesday last the Right Honourable Sir Thomas Parker, Lord chief Baron of his Majesty's Court of Exchequer, and the Hon. Mr. Baron Clarke, arrived here, and went that Evening to the Castle, to open the special Commission of Oyer and Terminer and Goal Delivery, in which the Archbishop of York, the Marquis of Rockingham, Lord Viscount Irwin, and twenty-five others, were appointed Commissioners.

On Thursday the Judges went to the Cathedral, where they heard a most excellent Discourse from the High Sheriff's Chaplain, who took his Text from the 25th Chapter of Numbers, Verse the 5th, And Moses said unto the Children of Israel, Slay ye every one his Men, that were joined unto Baal-peor. We are assured the Grand Jury have requested the same to be printed.

The Charge was given by the Lord chief Baron, and a great Number of Gentlemen appeared upon the Pannel.

Copy of a Letter from Capt. David Littlejohn, of the Ship Robinhood, dated at Gibraltar, June 25.

"This serves to acquaint you, that on the 19th Instant I fell in with Cape Spartel, off of which I met with one of his Majesty's Ships bound to Faro, but had no Time to write. In my Passage from Barbadoes to the said Place, I had several Skirmishes with the Enemy of little Consequence. About three Weeks before we sailed from Barbadoes, a Sloop bound to Gibraltar had the Misfortune to be taken by the Row-Gallies of Algazires; on board of her there happened to be some Irishmen, who wanted to make up their Misfortune on the Ruin of some of his Majesty's Subjects, and for that Purpose enter'd on board the said Gallies, and gave Information that I was daily expected, and that I was richly laden, which gave them Encouragement to equip their two Gallies and a Barcolongo in the best Manner they could, and with the bravest Fellows they could find. These three are all the Privateers they have at Algazires, which have done all the Damage in the Gut this War. Long look'd for came at last to their Coast, about 5 Hours after I left the Man of War, she standing to the Westward, and I to the Eastward. I got up a-breast of Tarifle, the Place of their Abode, where it fell calm; and not being able to work my Ship, I hawled my Sails up; by this time they got Sight of me, and made all the Way they possibly could with their Oars after me: Half an Hour after Three were within Gun shot of me, and keeping right in my Wake, I could not bring a Gun to bear upon them, except those in my Cabbin, which, tho' they did some Damage, they did not mind, but rowed up like resolute People, determined to conquer or die, for which the Captain and several of his Officers had taken the Sacrament at Algazires, either to bring me in, or die in the Attempt, which we had from the People of the Market Sloop next Day. Their Form of attacking me was, the Barcolongo to lie right astern, plying me hot with her Cushee Pieces, and 30 Men abast with small Arms, and the two Gallies, one on each Quarter, with all Hands at small Arms, and with what Cannon they had, plied me close for one Hour. We returned the Fire as well as we could in such an Inequality of Numbers, with our small Arms; our great Guns being render'd useless, the Barcolongo having silenced those in the Stern, for a little while, by cutting our Breechings and Tackle, which made them run back into the Steerage; this Opportunity they intended to embrace to board us with a general Huzza; but luckily, in that critical Minutes I called half a Dozen of my Men, and ran a Gun out without a Tackle or Breeching, loaded with Double Round and Partridge, and an Iron Crow, and in spite of their Fire I discharged it at the Barcolongo, struck abaft her Mizen-mast, and carried away her whole Quarter and Poop, with all the Marines that were there, on which the rest of the Crew ran into the Bow to keep her from sinking; whereupon I got a Gun to bear on her from my Steerage, which did her a great deal of Mischief, and the few left alive got out Oars and row'd off. Having thus demolished the Barcolongo, my People kept continual Fire on the two Gallies, who engaged us still under each Quarter, and boarded us three times, but we destroyed them as fast as they enter'd. They were so furious, and had such Machines for Destruction, that they set us on Fire twice, blew up me and several of my Men with the Powder Flasks which fell on Deck, all which we got the better of, and after a long Dispute of two Hours, few of them being left alive, the rest took to their Oars, and left us. My brave Men proposed to follow them with the Boats, and bring the Galley into Gibraltar, but I was unwilling to second so rash a Design, after so brave a Defence of me and our Properties, their Courage, under God being the Cause of our Victory, Too much cannot be said in their Praise; all to a Man behaved wonderfully, and, by a sort of Miracle, not one of us are killed, but hardly one without Wounds, and Mr. Trail, my Mate, has in particular his Leg broke, tho' on Shore, and like to do well, as I hope all the rest will. The Market Boat from Algazires Yesterday brings Word, that only one of the Gallies was come in with 5 men, and the other supposed to have sunk. There were 120 men in these two, and the Barcolongo had 36 men killed outright, and 22 more received extreme Unction, not expecting to live a Day; they have done a deal of Damage to my Rigging, and drove in my Stern. The Gentlemen Insurers are obliged to us for destroying a Nest of Rascals, who have done a deal of mischief this Way."

ANNAPOLIS.
